Refraction

A refraction is the test performed to determine your spectacle (eyeglass) prescription. A refraction is also needed for a contact lens prescription, although a separate fitting and evaluation is required to finalize a contact lens prescription. If the refraction is declined, then no eyeglasses or contact lens prescription may be ordered unless a current (non-expired) prescription is supplied.

Contact Lens Fitting and Evaluation

A contact lens fitting and evaluation is required to obtain a new contact lens prescription. This exam is separate from a comprehensive eye exam. New contact lens wearers are also required to go through a contact lens training at the time of their fitting.

Medical Insurance Coverage

Medical insurance only covers medical diagnoses such as abrasions, glaucoma, diabetes, cataracts, macular degeneration, dry eyes, conjunctivitis, etc. Medical insurance does not cover refractions, contact lens fittings and evaluations, eyeglasses, or contact lens supplies.

Vision Insurance Coverage

Vision insurance covers routine eye exams and refractions to determine eyeglass prescriptions. Some vision plans cover a contact lens fitting and evaluation (with a copay), but not all plans do. Vision insurance does not cover a contact lens training. Most vision plans will also have benefits for some materials such as frames, lenses, or contact supplies.

Patient Acknowledgement

I understand that a refraction is a non-covered service under major medical insurance. I also understand that my vision insurance plan may or may not cover a contact lens fitting and evaluation. I acknowledge that I must receive a contact lens training if I am a new contact lens wearer. I agree to pay any fees for non-covered services such as refraction, contact lens fitting and evaluation, and contact lens training along with any co-pays and non-covered doctor recommended testing or products at the time of service.
